

- Display three objects (cones, teapots...) on the screen. Use OpenGL to draw the objects
- Develop a user interface which allows to change color and size of each object independently (not necessarily every color has to be available)
- If you want something more challenging: allow the user to move the objects